In this section of the application, you will make decisions about your program of interest and the campus you would like to attend. If a major and/or campus does not appear in the choices on the next page, it may be due to the following:

- The major you are interested in cannot be started at the campus you have chosen;
- The major you have selected cannot be finished at the ending campus you have selected;
- The major selected is full for the selected semester;
- You are ineligible for consideration for that major and/or campus based on the academic history that you have provided and the minimum requirements of the major and/or campus.

BUILD YOUR PROGRAM OF STUDY

CHOOSING YOUR MAJOR

The application will walk you through three ways to select your major:

Academic Interest Area: By organizing your choices this way, you will first select a general interest area, then select a specific Penn State major from the drop-down menu. After selecting your major and clicking save, you will see the description of the major and any relevant program notes.

Alphabetical Listing: Academic programs will be sorted alphabetically. Using this organizational method, you will select an academic program from the alphabetical listing.

Campus Location: Using this organizational option, you will see academic programs organized by the campus where the academic program is completed. You will first select a campus and then a specific academic program offered for completion at that campus.

The application will require you to select starting and ending campuses. You will then select an alternate starting campus. Most of Penn State's academic programs may be started at one campus and completed at the campus where the academic degree is awarded. We call this the 2+2 plan, in which a student spends two years at one campus and then transitions to another campus for the final two years of study to complete a degree. Our promise to you is that you will be evaluated for each campus in the order you specify. If you fulfill the admission requirements for your first-choice campus, you will be accepted there. Providing an alternate choice campus will expedite the admissions process should we not be able to make you an offer of admission to your first-choice campus.

View a complete listing of Penn State's majors at admissions.psu.edu/academics/majors.

Summer Session at University Park: If you select University Park as your starting campus, you also have the option to be considered for the six-week summer session, which begins the last week of June and ends in the second week of August. If you select this option, we will first evaluate your application for the fall semester. If we are unable to offer you admission for the fall, your application will be evaluated for the summer session. Students who start in the summer typically take two classes and automatically continue at University Park for the fall semester. Many incoming first-year students register for a special summer program called LEAP (Learning Edge Academic Program). You can learn more at leap.psu.edu.
