MEET EMMA

Emma is a Paterno Fellow and Schreyer Scholar majoring in French and Francophone Studies and International Politics with minors in Spanish, Women's Studies, and Global and International Studies.

She spends most of her time outside the classroom focused on Days for Girls at Penn State, an organization that works to end period poverty—the lack of access to menstrual products and essentials needed for period care—at our University and around the world.

“The College of the Liberal Arts has granted me a lot of unique opportunities. Working with career coaches within the Liberal Arts Career Enrichment Network and academic advisers has been amazing. All the resources that the college has are really great, which I have found to be great tools as a student.”
