MEET JESSICA

Jessica is majoring in German and World Languages Education.

Jessica has served as president of the German Club and was an undergraduate research assistant for a Partnerships in International Research and Education (PIRE) project. She has also been involved in Axis Benefiting THON. After graduation, she would like to teach German to middle or high school students.

“I feel like I am really lucky to be educated here. The College of the Liberal Arts provides so many opportunities for professional development. Most of my classes within the college are small enough to build relationships with my classmates and my professors. This creates opportunities and gives students the chance to get to know the people they are learning from.”
