MEET ETHAN

Ethan is a Schreyer Scholar majoring in Psychology.

He always dreamed of starting an organization while being a college student but was waiting for the right idea. When COVID-19 initially struck the United States, Ethan noticed the strain that the pandemic had on higher education. This strain prompted him to create The College Prep Project, a nonprofit that helps high school students apply to colleges, receive scholarships to fund their experience, and learn strategies to succeed in college.

Ethan participated in the Happy Valley LaunchBox FastTrack Accelerator program, which is a four-month program that helps entrepreneurs build an actionable plan to launch their business, test the market quickly, and build a solution based on customer feedback.
